Background Information

Histone H2A.X belongs to the histone H2A family, which is synthesized in G1 and S phase. It is involved in nucleosomal organization of chromatin together with other histone proteins, and is specially important for recombination between immunoglobulin switch regions. H2A.X becomes phosphorylated on serine 139 (to form gamma-H2AFX or H2AX139ph) in response to DNA double strand breaks (DSBs) generated by exogenous genotoxic agents and by stalled replication forks, which promotes DNA repair and maintains genomic stability. The calculated molecular weight of H2AX is 15 kDa, but the ubiquitinated H2A.X is about 22 kDa.

Selected Validation Data

HEK-293T cells were subjected to SDS PAGE followed by western blot with 83307-3-RR (Histone H2A.X antibody) at dilution of 1:2000 incubated at room temperature for 1.5 hours. This data was developed using the same antibody clone with 83307-3-PBS in a different storage buffer formulation.

Immunohistochemical analysis of paraffin-embedded human kidney(renal cell) Cancer slide using 83307-3-RR (Histone H2A.X antibody) at dilution of 1:500 (under 20x lens). Heat mediated antigen retrieval with Tris-EDTA buffer (pH 9.0). This data was developed using the same antibody clone with 83307-3-PBS in a different storage buffer formulation.
